Prov. iii. 9.

Honour the LORD with thy Substance.

of Man, the greatest Honour Man Himself can receive, the End for which he was created, and which, whether he will or no, he must answer: In no Circumstances, or Moment can we want Opportunities, or are free from Obligations to the Duty: Happy those, who let no Moment be lost, but 'Whether they eat or drink, or whatever they do, make this the chief End of all.

Should Satan, from the Foolishness of his own Wisdom, gain Power over us, as over Job, to take from us all we call the

Goods of this World; adding Sickness, and, as he thinks, Dishonour; even here, we may turn his own Artifice against him, and 'Bless, like Job, the Name of the Lord, gaining Glory ourselves, by making both Satan and ourselves the Instruments of Glory to God.

by Thanksgiving, much more may they, which are 'Full, abound, if the weak and dishonourable, who having Nothing, may seem farthest from a Likeness to the Posession of all Things, can from their Poverty add to God's Glory, and be 'Rich towards Him, while they want every Thing else; much more may such as are called 'Gods upon Earth, confer like God, what they receive from Him, make the Encrease, which He gives, to be his Encrease who gives it; and by returning back to him his own good Things, gain a Title to receive from him better.

⁽¹⁾ Job. i. 21. (2) 2 Cor. ix. 12. (3) Phil. iv. 18. (4) 2 Cor. viii. 2. (5) Pfalms lxxxii. 16.

THESE are the Thoughts which I would pursue in this Discourse; when I shall,

First, More clearly have explained, How God receives Honour from Man.

And shewn,

Secondly, How our Substance may be improv'd to his Honour.

I shall add,

Lastly, That the Obligations of many hereto are great; and great will be the Reward of the Obedient.

It may be doubted, how finite can add to infinite; or Honour or Pleasure accrue from this World to a Being who, before the World began, was All-glorious in Himself, and had all his Happiness compleat. "Tho' God is said in Scripture to act for his Name-sake, and for His

"Glory: This may feem not to conclude, as if an All-wife God was concerned, whether fuch blind Creatures, as we are, approve or disapprove of his Proceedings, or was advanced in His Homour by our Approbation,—or as if it was not the highest Arrogance and Folly in Man to imagine, That he can add to the Glory of God."

Does He command us then to give Him, what he no Ways can receive? Promise to reward us for doing, what it is Folly to think we can do? And threaten to punish us for not doing what is absolutely out of our Power?—Surely there is more Absurdity in the Affirmative here, than in any Thing we would avoid thereby.

Is Man cannot add to the Honour of Goo, because this must be supposed from Everlasting so infinite, as to be incapable of Addition, than Goo Himself could not encrease his own Honour, by any Thing He ever did, or does, or can do. Then God never could be or can be All-glorious, because eternally precluded from suture Glory.—Would not this be said more properly of His worst Adversary, the Devil?

Doubtless God was All-glorious from without, before the World began, and so he must continue, when this World shall cease; for there never was, or can be a Time, in which all that existed, or shall exist, did not, or will not work together for God's Glory: But does this prove, that He cannot receive Honour from any Thing, or rather that from every Thing he receives it?

So in Himself He has been always Allglorious, because in and from Himself He has had Perfection productive of all Glory. He is the first Cause, and must be the ultimate Object of whatever Honour has been, is, or can be: Yet 'If I bonour Myself, my Honour is Nothing, says Christ;

Worth without a Witness has no more Honour, than Imperfection totally conceal'd: Honour always supposes mutual Relation, a Giver as well as a Receiver; both Excellence in the Person honour'd, and a Manisestation of this to others, that they may pay Regard to it; for in this Regard, more or less, before many, or few Witnesses, the very Being, as well as Measure, of Honour consists.

Because no Man gives even this to God, without receiving from Him the Power and Inclination, and Opportunity to give it: Therefore it is also true, that God is All in All, and we 'when we have done All, are but unprofitable Servants, for only of his own do we give Him, only that which He might have from others, tho' we did not give it; 'He is able of these Stones to raise up Children to Himself, and gains not any Thing by prefering us to this Honour, which he would not gain, if

He did not prefer Us, but Somebody else thereto; but Children He must raise, or He can't be honour'd as a Father; and those he does raise must necessarily honour Him, or by the Reward which they will reap for their Obedience, or by the Punishment which they will suffer for their Refusal: The Wise make a Virtue of Neceffity, and chuse to be rewarded for doing willingly, what, whether they will or no, they will do; so far is it from Truth, that we cannot honour GoD; that the Contrary is most true, we cannot but honour Him; and all that feeming Difhonour, which Men or Devils now do Him, will finally be Increase of his Glory.

So God's Happiness-was in the Beginning as it is now and ever shall be; for with him can be no Time, either past or future, but all is one Eternal Now; nor in any Time can he strictly be said to receive what from all Time He sully enjoy'd. Therefore, David said unto the Lord, 'My Goods are Nothing unto Thee.

And Eliphaz asks Job, 'Is it any Pleasure to the Almighty that thou art Righteous? Since God from Everlasting, received from our Virtue all the Pleasure it does or can afford; therefore no new Pleasure or Gain arises from it in the Instant that we do it; yet let us not therefore say, God has No Pleasure in it, for this proves he has Eternal Pleasure.

God faw, from the Beginning, all His Works were Good, and with whatever is fo, He cannot but be pleased: Even the Inanimate Part of the Creation affords Him both Glory and Satisfaction; and much more the Part after his own Image: Blind, and worthless, and dependent as we are, tho' 'We died in Adam, we were made alive in Christ; renewed to that Image of God, after which He first created us, and for the same Reason that God has Pleasure in himself, He may have it, to some Degree, in Man.

"INDEED, the Glory of God, we have been 'elsewhere told, is the Goodness and Happiness of his Subjects, and therefore when we say, He does every Thing for his own Glory, and that this is his ultimate End, the Meaning is, that his Design in all Things is the final Establishment of universal Righte- ousness in the whole Greation; and when a Man does an Action, because it is Good, or forbears it because Evil, then only does he truly intend the Glory of God."

But, with Submission, the Glory of God is no more the Goodness and Happiness of his Subjects, than it is sometimes their Afflictions, and Failings, and at other Times the Wickedness and Misery of his Enemies: God's Glory will arise from each of these, and in common Speech we often fay, It is the Thing from which it arises, but strictly it must be something distinct, as every Effect is from its Cause. How then does it follow, that when God represents himself as doing every Thing for his own Glory, the Meaning is, that he defigns the final Establishment of universal Righteousness in the whole Creation? Or where has God told us that he has fuch a Defign? God was All-glorious, before there was any Creation, and his Glory is still unfullied, tho' the Righteousness therein is not universal: God is as uncapable of acting wrong for a Moment, as he is of acting so to all Eternity; and if it is wrong, that Unrighteousness should exist in any future Time, it would be equally fo, that it should exist even Now; but God can work Good out of what we call Evil, and therefore for himself the Lord created it, even the Wicked for the Day of Evil. known to those, who will never imitate his Righteousness, and he may punish his Enemies, wicked spirits and wicked Men, to manifest his Righteousness upon them, without designing to establish any among them.

e tellilying, or promoting in our-NEITHER when a Man does an Action, because Good, or forbears it, because Evil, then only does he truly intend the Glory of God, rather he does not intend it in the least, if he acts on a Principle, which he thinks binding antecedent to the Divine Will, neither is God in all his Thoughts, tho' consequentially what he does may conduce to God's Glory, as it furely would, if he did the quite Contrary, even as Satan glorifies God, by every Act of Enmity to him; yet the Intention either of the one or the other, is not to advance Gon's Glory. And how a Man can be faid then only to intend a Thing truly, when that Thing is neither actually, nor habitually in his Intention, seems as difficult to conceive as to explain: Better were it to keep to the more intelligible Notion, to which the same Writer returns, in other Parts of his Works, as if then only we can be faid truly to intend Gop's Glory in our Actions, when we do them out of some Regard to God, because thought pleasing to him, or commanded by him; because testifying, or promoting in ourselves, or others, some Sense of, or Reverence for, some of the Properties or Excellencies of God, and of the Things relating to him; and fo far as our Substance can be either taken or kept, enjoy'd or parted with, so as to testify or produce in any Being such Respect, so far it may be improv'd to Gon's Honour, as I proceed now,

Secondly, to shew:

Do we receive it as his Gift? We do in Effect to God, what Satan offer'd Christ; all the Kingdoms of the Earth to gain, 'We fall down and worship him; we acknowledge his Sovereignty, and our Dependance, his Kindness and our Obligations, that it is of his free Grace, we are what we are, and our bounden Duty to be what he would have us; for as of him are all Things, so to him should be all; his is the Kingdom and the Power, and therefore his the Glory for ever.

Do we possess it as he directs, as 'tho' we possest it not, without setting our Hearts upon it, without trusting too confidently in it, without assuming from it that 'Pride for which Man was not made? Do those in high Stations not always 'mind high Things, but condescend sometimes, for the Honour of the most High, to Men of low Estate, to be Strength to the Weak, and Feet to the Lame, and for *the Stript, and Wounded, and Half-dead, to provide both Medicines and an House, saying, like the good Samaritan to the Hoft, Take Care of him; and what thou spendest, when I come I will repay? Here the Grace of God is so transcendently visible, as to create an Exception to our Saviour's Rule, and tho' it be 'hard as for a Camel to go thro' the Eye of a Needle, and impossible for a rich Man to be sav'd, here this is plainly 'not impossible with God, but the greater Difficulty, the greater Honour to that Power, which alone can turn Men's Minds as it seemeth best to his godly Wisdom, and inspire the most heroic Virtue, in the Midst of all Temptations to the Contrary.

CHARITY is indeed the End of my Text, as well as of 'every Commandment, what to those, who covet earnestly the best Gifts, should be shewn as 'the more excellent Way, what honoureth God above all Virtues, because 'the Bond of Perfectness, 'the fulfilling of Christ's Law, and in a Manner 'comprehensive of all.

It betokens in the Doer a Sense of his Duty, and of the Right which God has in his Substance, implies Faith in God's Promises, Fear of his Threatnings, Trust in his Goodness, Gratitude for his Mercies, Submission to his Will. It awakens the Receiver to look up to God, of whose Grace alone it cometh that others are willing to relieve him: It inspires him with due Thoughts of Providence, Thanksgiving, and Reliance on GoD: It takes from God's Enemies that Objection in which they delight, that God bestows most of his Favours on those who least deferve them: It encourages others, by Force of good Example, to go and honour God in the same Manner So many Ways He facrificeth Praise, whose Alms support only the Bodies of Men; even this is doing Honour to the Work of God's Hands, to the Temples of the Holy Ghoft, to the Members of CHRIST, whom he is 'not asham'd to call his Brethren, whose Wants he felt himself on Earth, that he might be more touch'd with them now in Heaven: 'Tis to do what he respects as done immediately to 'himfelf, and will reward as if himself subsisted by it; what he most expresly, frequently, and earnestly commands, as necessary to determine in the 'last Day our Admission to, or Exclusion from Heaven: It is what the young Man in the Gospel, who had kept every other Point of the Law, and whom ' Jesus beholding loved, still wanted, that Jesus might save him. --- And need more be faid to bespeak your Favour to an Hospital, where this Virtue shines forth with most diffusive Lustre, a Blessing to Nations, while an Ornament to this City, and, in a more eminent Degree, an Honour to that Spirit, which seems, as in the Beginning of the Creation, to have moved here 'upon the Face of the Waters, most illustriously operating in those Hearts, who contriv'd and brought it to fuch Perfection nor less abounding to the Praise of all, who shall support it with equal Goodness.

THE Poor rise here, as by a new Creation, or Resurrection to a better Life, like the Bones, which Exekiel describes, when the Lord puts the Question, as of a Thing hardly possible, 'Son of Man can these Bones live? How fitly may this be asked of many, when first admitted to this Hospital? and how often is the Answer here, as by the Prophet, 'Thus saith the Lord to the dry Bones, behold I will lay Sinews upon you, and I will bring up Flesh upon you, and cover you with Skin, and put Breath in you, and ye shall live, and ye shall know that I am the Lord?

This Charity affords not Momentary Refreshment, like those distill'd Waters, in which too often are spent the Alms thrown away on common Street-Beggars: This does not increase, but cure Diseases; dispensing Medicines by the most skilful Hands, and therefore always with surest Success.—And tho' all are not cured, yet all are comfortably subsisted, while there are Hopes of Benefit from Medicines, or Water; nor dismist, 'till they have full Satisfaction, that what could be, has been done, and the Rest is to be left only to Gop.

Many with Support receive such Health as by honest Industry will get better Support, for 'much Food is in the Tillage of the Poor, as well to themselves as the Community, who reap the Fruit of their labours; a Blessing to many Particulars, it may be to a numerous Family, perhaps for many Years, by longer Life, to give longer Opportunities of laying up larger Store, both in this World, and the next, and of training their Houshold to inherit as well their Virtues as Gains.

EVEN this latter Consequence may reafonably be expected, because the Sicknesses of the Soul are here also relieved; a Physician of this is at Hand, to pray for the Poor, and praise God with them, and add wholesome Advice when it is most needed, and most like to make the deepest Impression. Is not this raising Soldiers, perhaps for our Country, more certainly for God, in the grand Contention between Him and Satan, who shall have most Servants in the World, as it is said of the Bones before-mention'd in Exekiel, 'And they lived and stood on their Feet, an exceeding great Army?

This is not only good in the Doer, but tends to make Multitudes good; has in it all the Merit of Charity to their Bodies, and still a great Deal more, will occasion Prayers and Praises from numberless Tongues, not once, or annually, but indefinitely for ever: This fills not only Earth, but Heaven with Goo's Praises, supplies even Angels with Motives to Hallelujahs, supplies even Heaven with Angels, adding to the Fullness of the Joys of that Place, and to the Inhabitants thereof, by making Men meet to be Partakers of such Joys.

Obligations to this Virtue (which I propos'd in the third Place to mention) 'As we have Opportunity, and 'according as God bath prospered us, and 'according as thro' his Grace we are disposed in our Hearts. Thus St. Paul teaches, both how often, and in what Measure we should honour God with our Substance, and in all the three Instances, 'Where much is given, there much will be requir'd.

I. Is an Opportunity offer'd which is no where else to be gained? There our Obligations not to neglect it are most strong. Can ye give Relief here, which the World cannot give elsewhere? Here the Command is most indispensable to every one able to obey it. In other Places, they who come and look on the wounded Traveller, and then pass by on the other Side, may, as they pass, see another Hospital, where by effecting the like Benefits, they may compensate for former Omissions; but if ye give not to this, in no other Place can ye do the like, or half fo much Good; for in no other have the Physicians the same Remedy to prescribe, nor under their Care half so many of the most valuable, as well as beautiful Parts of the Nation, who both want and deferve all the Assistance of the most perfect Skill in this Medicine, of Skill, which can only be made perfect by Experience, and of Experience, which can no where be fo well grounded as in this Hospital, where every Case is open to every Professor in Physic, and the Patient in every Instance kept strictly to Physician's Rules.

THEY, who know most, are always most sensible of their Wants, and therefore the Physicians of this Place (deservedly allowed Excellent as any in the World) will bear with my Saying, That the Knowledge of the Powers of these Springs, is inexhaustible as the Springs themselves; not thro' any Change in the Water, but thro' Changes in those who use it: Every Day Cases Cases become more complicated and new, thro' different Climates and Seasons, new Manners of Education and Living, new Meats and Drinks, and perhaps new Medicines, by taking strange Physic without a Physician, (Infatuation by which this Age and Country fuffers above all others) whence fuch unnatural Discomposure in Bodies, fuch Alteration of Constitutions and Complaints, fuch frequent Variety of Symptoms in Diseases, and of Diseases themselves, that the most judicious Admirer of antient Practice, sees every Day's Experience needful, to inform that of the Day before, and with all his Skill, shews his Skill most in acknowledging, that he has not yet enough to make his Power equal to his Defire of giving Health to every one that asks it.

THE Legislature lately thought it worth a large Reward to be told, not the Qualities or Properties (for these were known before) of one or two Drugs, but the Quantities rather, to which in one Distemper they might be fasely taken: How much more Encouragement, how many Times the like Sum, deferves an Hospital, where fo many Phyficians, in fo many Cases, learn the Virtues of Water, so reforted to by many, fo coveted by more, so fuited to the Inclination, as well as Wants of the Rich, to that Delicacy of Body, and those Wounds of the Mind, which are caus'd by Fullness of Ease and Bread, or by being careful and troubled about many Things? In short, the Remedy is univerfally in Repute, and therefore ought to be as fully understood; for in unskilful Hands, the best Remedies are only more fatal Poison; and from being more esteem'd and prais'd, gain a Power to destroy more.

II. Do I not speak to many, whom God hath prosper'd already with great Share both of Health and Wealth; of Health, entirely recovered here, and of Wealth, by which they were enabled to come hither? Will these, like the Ten whom our Saviour cleansed, let only *one Stranger be found, who shall return to give Glory to God? Will these deny those very Waters to others, which have been dealt to themselves, so much to their Comfort? nor regard, altho' they know the Command is, that—'as every Man bath received the Gift, even so we should minister the Same, one to another, as good Stewards of the Grace of God?

They who have Health, and nothing else, are required to 'labour, working with their Hands, that they may have to give to him that needeth: And more frequent are the Injunctions on the Rich, 'to minister as of the Ability which God has given, that He may be glorified in all Things, that He may 'reap not only where He has sown, but as He expects in the same Proportion. Did Charity to this Hospital abound in Just Proportion to the Estate of every one relieved at these Springs, how little would be the Burden to each, yet how immense the Benefit in the Whole? What Numbers might then drink these Waters, who, for Want of them now, will be loft? Tho no one has more than he can spend on himself, there are sew but have more than they need spend so, and sewer have a Right to spend their All in such Manner: I say their All, to comply with common Speech, tho there is not a more fallacious Thought than this, which is too common, That all which a Man possesses the series of the series

Could I shew you one, to whom a dying Friend has bequeath'd a large Fortune, the greatest Part to that Man's own Use, and the Residue to his poor Brethren; and should the Possessor of it all, think it therefore his own, waste it on his Lusts, and detain from his Brethren their Part, when they were really dying for Want? How would Indignation arise to every Man of Honour? How ready would ye be, as David on a like Occasion, to adjudge such a rich Man to Death, because be had no Pity: And yet how many, too much like David, would pass Sentence here on a themselves? for to every one who shall keep from the Poor; what God has put in his Hands for them, it might be said, Thou art the Man.

THERE is a Justice, there is a Gratitude, due even to the Poor, for it is by their Labour that you have Ease, or at least Leisure to prosecute more pleasing Labour; their Labour for you, perhaps, brought on those Pains, which now want your Relief. It is God who made you to differ from them; who has not subjected you to the like Pains from Labour; who trusted to you that Wealth, which he would not trust to them, that you might give them their daily Bread, to encrease the Virtue and Reward of both, That the Rich might be made 'Rulers over many Things, for being merciful and faithful over a few, and the Poor lay up Treasure in Heaven, by being patient and thankful on Earth, 'Whilft by the Experiment of this Ministration, they glorify GOD for your profess'd Subjection unto the Gospel of Christ, and for your liberal Distribution unto them, and unto all Men.

III. And if to a fingular Opportunity, and great Ability, should be added Thirdly, a Knowledge of your Obligations, for the Knowledge, as for the Wealth imparted, you will be equally bound to answer: Hence arises the strongest Obligation, more highly to enhance their Guilt, who, as St. Stephen reproach'd the Jews, shall resist the Holy Ghost, and not keep the Law they have received.

THE Rule is, to give 'as ye are disposed in your Hearts, and if originally form'd susceptible of tender Impressions, you feel your Hearts melt on the Consideration of many Brethren, so destitute, afflicted, tormented; or, if the Use of these Waters (as is their common Effect) has, by raising your Spirits, enlarg'd your Souls, and inspir'd that good-natur'd, that most equitable Wish, that all may be made chearful as yourselves; if educated to the noblest Ambition, you see no Happiness so God-like as that of making others happy, and of being honour'd and lov'd, and benefited by them; or if naturally less moved with piteous Misery, or wholly engrost by Business, or Pleasure, you have no Leifure, or no Inclination to make others Pains your own, 'till God teaches you what they feel in Sickness, by making you feel the like yourselves; if your Understanding is inform'd, or your Will affected, your Gratitude prompted, or Fears quicken'd, your Hopes rais'd, or Emulation fir'd, by any Thing moving in your own Breasts, in the Council of Friends, the Example of Neighbours, in the Word of Goo, or that of his Ministers, be affured that Goo is in each of these Voices; and that to offend against Mercy or Light, or Nature, or Correction, is most bitter Aggravation of Wickedness. If I had not come unto them, says Christ, they had not had Sin, but now they have no Cloak for their Sin.

THEN let Fear of Punishment teach us better, if Love and Gratitude cannot; for the less we have of Gratitude, the more we have to fear.

Is the Health, lately gain'd, so firmly establish'd, that we no longer want the Favour of Gop, and dare now provoke his Anger? So David, 'in his Prosperity said, he should not be remov'd, the Lord of his Goodness had made his Hill so strong; but it follow'd the sooner for such a Saying, Thou didst hide thy Face from me, and I was troubled.

CAN we promise ourselves, that in the Moment we go hence, we shall not want that Relief ourselves, which God now asks us to give? Or that the Hand, which we shall stretch forth, like Jeroboam, in Disbelief of the Divine Threatning, may not, like that King's, 'be dried up, that we cannot pull it in again unto us? Tho'

these Springs, in such Cases, sometimes can work Miracles, as effectually as did the Prophets Prayers, and we may think the Remedy at Hand; will any be entitled to such a Miracle, who hath no Hand open to the Poor?

'Tis often question'd, whether the Waters in this Place, do more promote the Health of the Body, than some of the Customs and Diversions do endanger not only Health, but your Substance also; perhaps the Welfare of your Souls; perhaps your Happiness, both here and hereafter: Where Life is preserv'd, Estates may be los Innocence misled, and Reputation wounded, beyond the Power of Waters to heal. The greater fuch Dangers, the greater should be the Care to lay up Alms in this Storehouse, to be Deliverance from Temptation and Evil, to protect us in these infectious Paths of Extravagance, Vanity, and Gaming; from Craftiness on one Side, and Thoughtlesness on the other; from the Snares of the Hunter, and from the Lions feeking whom they may devour. Many, exempt from fuch Dangers themselves, may yet see some Child, or Relation, or much-lov'd Friend, for whose Safety they are anxious as their own. Thus Job, when 'His Sons and Daughters had feasted in their Houses, every one his Day, continually rose up early, and sent and sanctify'd them, by Offerings, according to the Number of them all; for tho' he could not charge them with outward Indecency, Job said, It may be, my Sons have sinned, and cursed God in their Hearts.

It is in Feafting, Dancing, and Playing, as the wife Man hath faid of Buying and Selling, fomething, 'as a Nail betwixt the Joining of the Stones will be apt to stick fast to those, who are much employ'd in them. Now Alms are the only Sacrifices by which a Christian can cover such Sins, and were these offer'd here, but half so often as there is Occasion for this Property of them, how richly would your Hospital be endow'd? Then should thy Light break forth as the Morning, and thy Health should spring forth speedily; thy Righteousness shall go before, and the Glory of the Lord shall be the Reward; thou shalt call, and he will answer thee, thou shalt cry, and he shall say, here I am.

Besure where Virtue has abounded, there Blessing will likewise abound. Already have the Physicians of this Place been enabled by this Hospital, to consute some dangerous Mistakes of the most Experienc'd in other Places, and show how far, in Paralytic Disorders, these Waters have been useful; and with unparrallel'd Disinterestedness and Benevolence, they engage not to confine what other Knowledge they gain, or to themselves, or to this Hospital, but to publish it throughout the World; to be Instruction to as many as shall be fit to drink these Waters, and to as many, as shall be truly told, in what

Cases it is not proper to drink them, that the last may not be put unnecessarily on hazardous expensive Journies, nor the former be kept, with more Hazard and Pain, to as long and great Expence at Home; so that your Charity will not end, tho' it begins with the Poor, nor your Hospital be useless without Doors, tho' no Cure should be perform'd within: As some out of every Order of Men have been Benefactors to this Hospital, so from it Benefit will arise to some of every Order, even 'as the Rivers run into the Sea, so to the Place from whence the Rivers came, thither shall they return again; to the Nobility, the Magistracy, the Gentry, the Clergy, perhaps the Royal Family also, to recompence their reiterated Bounty, to keep the Lights of Israel from being quench'd, to preserve the Chariots and Horsemen thereof, those on whose Health depends the Welfare of Kingdoms, that they may have Strength of Body, as well as of Mind, to go in and out before a great People. The Sun comes not round more duly in his Season, than some or other of these are perpetually applying to the Physicians here, to be releived from Pains, which their long continu'd Studies and Watchings, their too little Labour, or too much create; or which the Anxieties, Contests, and Cares of Administration, their Hardships by Sea, or Fatigues by Land, their Wounds in their Country's Cause have occasion'd: Therefore 'cast your Bread on these Waters, that thereafter ye may find it many Days, in the Health, as well of Others as yourselves. He that followeth after Righteousness and Mercy, has Gon's Promise of Life, Rightebusness, and Honour; he has the Prayers of many so long as he lives, which powerfully contribute to lengthen his Life; he has their Praise, their Esteem, their Love, and Affistance to adorn his Profperity, and turn from him Evil.-Lo! these are the Churches hidden Treasures, said St. Laurence to the Officer, who ask'd, where he had hid those Treasures, and at the same Time shew'd him a Number of Maim'd, and Blind, Decrepid, and Insirm, whom he had therewith supported: These are the Castles, and Rocks of Desence, the most profitable Abundance of the City, inasmuch as they engage the Lord to keep the City, without which the Watchman waketh but in vain.

AND to come nearer Home, may we not remember, that with your Care of the Poor in this City, the rich Company ever has increas'd? With your Charity-School were the Beginnings of your Prosperity; and with the Building this Hospital, how many more Buildings arose? and to what a Height has the Value of the Old, as well as New; and of the Lands, as well as Houses improv'd? and how greatly has the Trade and Substance of the Inhabitants since multiplied, together with their Numbers?—Who knows but, when this good Defign shall be accomplish'd, and your Hospital in its full Extent compleated, God may put it into the Hearts of the worthy Members of this Corporation, to proceed to those Improvements in the Baths, which the Physicians have represented as necessary, and most Men long wish'd for and wanted, for the Emolument not only of the Company, but equally of the City and Corporation, to increase the Number and the Health of one, and both the Beauty and Trade of the other, and from All the GLORY of GOD.

Which God, of his infinite Mercy, grant, thro' Jesus Christ, our Lord; that to him, with the Father and the Holy Spirit, may be ascrib'd, as is most due, all Honour, and Praise, and Thanksgiving, for Ever and Ever, Amen.

A SHORT

OF THE

NATURE, RISE, and PROGRESS

OF THE

General Infirmary, at BATH.

HE great Concourse of Poor resorting to this City for the Use of the Medicinal Waters, and begging of the Gentry here for their Support, induced several well-disposed Persons to think of a Scheme of erecting an Infirmary, or Hospital, for the Cure and Maintenance of such poor Strangers.

ABOUT the Year 1730, the Sum of 3801. or thereabouts, was collected at this Place, for this Purpose: But the Design lay dormant 'till the Year 1738, when it was reviv'd, and a convenient Piece of Ground fix'd on to erect such an Instrmary upon. The Contributions immediately grew very large, and enabled the Undertakers to agree for, and bring to Persection, a large, commodious, substantial Building, capable of receiving above an Hundred poor Patients, besides the necessary Servants to attend them.

THEY then applied to Parliament for an Act to incorporate them. and to fecure them some Advantages for the Service of the Poor in the Infirmary, such as the Use of the *Bath, &c. In this they succeeded; and the Parliament, by an Act, immediately secured to them these Privileges, and incorporated them, by the Name of, The President and Governors of the General Hospital or Infirmary at BATH: nominating as the first Governors, Eighty-four Persons, many of whom are of the first Quality and Distinction, and others the most confiderable Benefactors to this Charity; and giving a Power to the then incorporated Governors, to fill up the Vacancies happening on the Decease of any of their Members; and likewise a Power to any Person to become a Governor, by giving a Donation of Forty Pounds or upwards, to the Use of the Infirmary: By which Means, the Governors will always be Persons of Note and Property, and always an increasing Body, the greatest possible Securities against any Fraud or Mismanagement, too frequently with Justice complained of, in those who execute Trusts of this Nature. Out of these Governors, by Appointments in the faid Act, Thirty-two are annually to be chosen, to transact the Business of the said Infirmary; which Choice has hitherto always fallen on those who are most likely to attend, by their being resident in or near the City of BATH.

THE narrow Compass to which this Paper is confined, forbids us to insert an Account of all the Transactions of the Corporation, since its first Establishment: But we think it necessary to mention a few Particulars, which we earnestly desire the Public to take Notice of.

Our Act of Parliament not falling into every Body's Hands, the Governors, at a great Expence, did, from Time to Time, insert the Terms of the Admission of Patients, prescrib'd by that Act, in several of the News-Papers; often renewed such Publications, and continued them a long Time. But sinding this Method inessectual, they did, in the Year 1741, print off the Terms of Admission upon a large Sheet of Paper, and did transmit such a Number of these Papers to every Bishop in England and Wales, as might supply every single Parish with

^{*} The Hospital Patients were, by this Act, permitted to bathe in the Hot-Bath only: While there was but a small Number to bathe, it was not found very inconvenient to be confined to this little Bath, but now the Hospital is full it is found by daily Experience, that by the Smallness of this Bath, many Patients are obliged to stay in much longer than they ought to do, to the great Detriment of their Health, and others are prevented from Bathing half as often as their Cases require. This Evil, which is a sore one, can be remedied only by the Corporation's permitting the Hospital Patients to have the free Use of the King's Bath, against which Permission, there is not the least reasonable Objection.

with one of them, humbly defiring my Lords, the Bishops, that they would disperse the same throughout their several Diocesses, and praying the Clergy to have one of these Papers hung up in their several Parish Churches, that they might there remain a perpetual Instruction to all Persons who should defire to have any Pauper admitted into our Hofpital. This we thought would be a most effectual Method to prevent any Person applying for Admission, but in the Manner therein prefcribed. But alas! notwithstanding the great Care and Expence, the Governors have employ'd in this Particular, we have many Patients fent to us in an undue Manner, whom, for that Reason, we cannot admit; and we are by that Means obliged to fend the poor Creatures back again, after they have gone thro' the great Fatigue of long and painful Journeys, to our own great Regret, and often to the Difgust of the Parishes which send them, whom we cannot make sensible. that it is not in our Power to act contrary to what our Act of Parliament, in that Case, prescribes. This is a fore Evil, which we earneftly entreat all People to take Notice of, and to remedy for the Future, by informing themselves of the right Manner of Admission, which we have been very solicitous, that they should all have an Optunity of doing, from our printed Papers.

ANOTHER great Grievance this Hospital has to complain of is, that many of the lower Class of the Faculty of Physic, who are apply'd to by the Parishes to draw up the Cases of Paupers, do it in so short and general a Manner, that scarce any Judgment can be formed about them by the Gentlemen here, whose Province it is to examine whether they are proper Bath-Cases, or not. Others omit such Circumstances, which if known, would at once shew the Patients improper to be admitted; fo that when the Person appears, we are surprized to find them fo different from what they were represented to be, in the State of their Cases. Sending such Persons back immediately from the Place, in which only they had Hope of Relief from their tedious Calamities, carries with it too strong an Appearance of Inhumanity, not tenderly to affect the Persons concern'd, who are, notwithstanding, obliged in Charity to perform the ungrateful Task, lest they should be guilty of Injustice, by letting an Incurable eat the Bread of one who might find a Cure. We must therefore beg all Gentlemen, concern'd in drawing up such Cases, that they will set down every material Particular; and, especially, not conceal any Circumstance, for fear that if it was fairly laid open, their Patient might not be deem'd a proper Object of this Charity.

We think ourselves obliged to give a Reason to the Public, why fewer Persons are discharged cured out of our Hospital, and those in it are maintained at a greater Expence, than in any other Hospital, in Proportion to the Number of Patients.

In the first Place, we have few Persons sent to us but such as labour under Leprosies, Palsies, old inveterate Rheumatisms or Lamenesses, many of them contracted long ago, by some fatal Hurt of the Part, scarce ever to be remedied. Physicians well know how difficult of Cure these Distempers are in their most recent State; but when they consider how sew of them ever fall under our Care, in this Hospital, 'till all Methods have been tried upon them, in their own Country, and the Disease has, by Length of Time, been riveted in their Constitutions, they will be so far from wondering that we cure no more, that they will return Thanks to God, that he has so graciously blessed the Means, by which so many of them have, from Time to Time, been quite restored, or greatly relieved.

As to the Expence, it is greatly enhanced by Chairmen, Guides, Linnen and Woollen Habits to Bathing, which are peculiar to this Hospital. This is the fair State of the Question, and we don't doubt but it will fatisfy all impartial Considerers.

We shall only mention one other Impediment to the Usefulness of this Charity, which is, that its being so very extensive, comprehending all his Majesty's Dominions, makes the Number of Persons applying for Admission, so disproportional to the Number the Charity can maintain, that many are minuted in our Books, when their Cases have been judged proper, six Weeks, two Months, or longer, before a Vacancy happens for them to come into the Hospital. It is with Grief to be observed, how inveterate, if not incurable, the Diseases of such poor Persons may prove, during so long an Interval. The late Lord Coleraine was so sensible of this Grievance, that the last generous Act he did, just before he died, was to give Five Hundred Pounds to the Hospital, for that especial Purpose, that the Interest of that Sum should be forever applied to the Admission of one, or more Persons, who stand minuted on the Books, above the Number which the Charity could otherwise maintain.

WHOEVER will consider what has been said in this Paper, must see, that by encreasing the Number of Patients, not only more Persons will be relieved, but likewise more Cures will be performed. because more Curables will be admitted, and the Expences of the House, in Proportion to the Number of Patients, will be lessened. This defirable End can only be promoted by the Encrease of the Capital Fund, of which well disposed Persons have been so sensible, that by the Blessing of Providence, it has been yearly augmented by generous and noble Benefactions.

An ACCOUNT of the RECEIPTS and DISBURSEMENTS for the Year, beginning, May 1, 1753.

been examined and audited by the under-mention'd Governors, and found clearly enter'd in the Boof the Corporation, with proper Vouchers for each Particular.

PAUL BERTRAND.

PHILIP ALLEN JOHN MORRIS

THIS Hospital was open'd for the Reception of Patients the 18th of May, 1742. As the Building was executed in the most folid and durable Manner, it prov'd very expensive, notwithstanding that one generous Benefactor gave a cat Part of the Materials: The Governors, confidering that their chief Dependance was on annual and casual Contriutions, thought it adviseable to limit the Number of Patients for the Year

All Persons may pay their Charitable Contributions into the Hands of Messers. Hoare and Comp. Bankers, in London, or to the Treasurers at Bath, viz. The Hon. Benj. Bathurst, Richard Nash, Esq; or Dr. William Oliver; or may put their several Contributions into either of the Boxes placed in the Pump-Room and Hospital, for that Purpose.

Such as chuse to be Benefactors by their last Will, have the following Form recommended to them:—Item, I give and bequeath unto A. B. and C. D. the Sum of upon Trust, to and the Intent that they, or either of them; do pay the same to the Treasurers, for the Time being, of the Hospital or Instrmary, at Bath; which said Sum of I desire may be applied towards carrying on the charitable Designs of the Governors of that Hospital.

CONDITIONS of Admission into the General Hospital at BATH.

FIRST.

THE Case of the Patient must be described by some Physician or Person of Skill in the Neighbourhood of the Place where the Patient has resided for some Time; and this Description, together with a Certificate of the Poverty of the Patient, attested by some Person of Credit, must be sent in a Letter, Franked or Post-paid, directed to the Register of the General Hospital at Bath.

The Age of the Patient ought to be mention'd in the Defcription of his Case, and the Persons who describe are desired to be particular in the Enumeration of the Symptoms; that so neither improper Cases may be admitted, nor proper ones rejected.

SECOND.

After the Patient's Case has been thus described, and sent, he must remain in his usual Place of Residence, 'till he has Notice of a Vacancy, signify'd by a Letter from the Register.

THIRD.

Upon the Receipt of such a Letter, the Patient must set forward for Bath, bringing with him this Letter, the Parish Certificate duly executed, and allowed by two Justices, and Three Pounds Caution Money, if from any Part of England or Wales; but if the Patient comes from Scotland or Ireland, then the Caution Money, to be deposited before Admission, is the Sum of Five Pounds.

FOURTH.

Soldiers may, instead of Parish Certificates, bring a Certificate from their Commanding Officers, fignifying to what Corps they belong, and they shall be receiv'd into the same Corps when discharg'd from the Hospital, in whatever Condition they are. But it is necessary, that their Cases be described, and sent previously; and that they bring with them Three Pounds Caution Money.

The Intention of the Caution Money is to defray the Expences of returning the Patients after they are discharg'd from the Hospital, or of their Burial in Case they die there. The Remainder of the Caution-Money, after these Expences are defray'd, will be return'd to the Person who deposited it.

†§† All poor Persons coming to Bath, under Pretence of getting into the Hospital, without having their Cases thus described and sent previously, and Leave given to come, will be treated as Vagrants, as the Act of Parliament, for the Regulation of the Hospital, requires.

If any Patient should have the Small-Pox here, such Person must be
